2.4.11: Institution adopts effective monitoring mechanisms during internship programme.

RESPONSE :

The process of practice teaching has to be, as it actually is, in tune with the guidelines of the Shala Darpan Rajasthan.

Practice Teaching:

Under the existing provision, each pupil teacher has to give a total of 70 lessons in B.Ed Two Year Program. In pre-internship student give 20 lesson in pedagogy subject. During the practice teaching.

Per day Lessons:

In any case, the PTs do not transact more than two lessons in a day. During practice teaching the PTs deliver 70 lessons (35 in each Pedagogy subject) and 20 lesson (10 in each pedagogy subject) with more emphasis being placed on effectiveness.

Monitoring Mechanism:

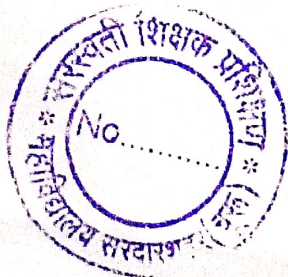

School subject teacher check and approve all the lessons plans. The teacher give remarks to the students.

Feedback Mechanism:

Teacher educators, PTs and school teachers observe the lessons delivered by the PTs. While observing lessons, the teacher educators record their comments on a set evaluation Performa, which come as immediate feedback to the concerned PTs.

In pre-internship one week observation of subect teacher also a part of feedback because during the observation student know how to teach in what is the appropriate process of teaching.

Regarding the details of practice teaching in schools, a student teacher generally delivers lessons covering one composite method subject she opted per day. These are observed by the concerned subject teachers. So far the feedback and monitoring mechanisms are concerned, principal of the School. Student interaction with the head master and the school teachers in respect to their concerned subjects he gets the feedback about student-teachers class room performance. After completion this practice teaching in schools. Evaluation performa filled by head of the school with seal and sign.
